Some Big Undertakings

AT a meeting this week of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce, at which that body was reorganized and strengthened, a program of intended accomplishment adopted. This program is rather remarkable in its undertakings and if carried to a successful conclusion would be a wonderful aid in the development of the peninsula.

This program contains six main issues:

Annexation of San Mateo county to San Francisco.
Extension of San Francisco Municipal Railways down to the San Mateo county line.
Completion of the Western Pacific railroad up the peninsula from San Jose.

Increase of water resources for the peninsula.

Completion of the Bayshore highway to San Jose.
Incorporation of Menlo Park as a municipality at the election to be held on April 12.

We are not just settled in our minds in regard to the first. There are many good arguments on both sides, and we are confident that this matter will be worked out in the future for the best interests of all concerned. There is no doubt about the advantage of the other five proposals, however. It is hardly possible that the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce will be able to accomplish all these things. But if it accomplishes, or helps to accomplish, any one or two of them, it will have served its purpose.

This organization should receive the aid and support of all civic organizations in the prosecution of this program. We wish them success.

HAS HIS HANDS FULL

ONCE in a while some one wonders how the sheriff puts in all his time. He has four men and nothing to do, so what can he find to pass the time? When we hear some one bubble over with this sort of thing, we just turn over in our mind that only thirty per cent of the work of the sheriff's office is criminal work. The other seventy per cent is work in connection with civil matters in the Superior court.

We remember that every week the court calendar contains between fifty and sixty cases and that for every one of these the sheriff or his deputies must notify every witness, and that these come from every section of the county. The sheriff must send a man in person to each one.

For all of this work only two deputies are available. One man must be kept in the Superior court whenever that body is in session. One man must be kept at the jail. Then there is the correspondence. Letters in every mail from some one who has lost track of their relatives or descriptions of an escaped convict or some other matter which requires immediate attention. All this in addition to the public's conception of the work of a sheriff, that of searching out and arresting criminals. When we think of all this we wonder how the sheriff finds time to sleep.

The county is full of police officers. Each town has its police force. Each township has one or two constables. The county maintains a force of traffic officers to patrol the highways. If all of these police officers were assembled it would form an army which would send terror to the heart of the criminal. But they are not assembled together. Each works under a different department and the sheriff, who is responsible for the policing of the entire county, cannot call on any one of the other branches for aid.

S. O. S.

DURING the recent terrific storms on the Atlantic four ships almost simultaneously reported themselves in peril.

"Fifty years ago," says the Paris, France, Times, "not only would they have been unable to call for help, but they would have stood strong chances of going down with all hands. Even in the steamer lanes, a sinking craft blown off her course or just out of the range of visibility of passing ships would have stood small chances of rescue. However, when the faint three dots, three dashes and three dots of the distress signal were picked up by some watchful wireless operator, the word was passed and the air was cleared for reception of the unfortunate ship's position and the organization of relief.

"The signals of the powerful navy stations crashed through the atmosphere, demanding right of way and silencing broadcasting. The music entertainment going out from scores of American stations was stopped for the longest period since the popularization of the radio. Millions of listeners-in on two continents were informed that ships were in distress and that they would have to forgo their evening's entertainment.

"The world is growing smaller—and safer."

SERVICE IS TOPIC

AT KIWANIS CLUB

Alvin Roth, comptroller of Stanford University, was the speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon last Wednesday, and his topic was service and service organizations. The speaker is a man of wide experience and his topic was one of great human interest. His address was delivered in an interesting manner and was much enjoyed by the members of the local organization.

The chairman on Wednesday was Frank Allen of the De Luxe Cleaning Works.

BIG CAST PROPS DENNY IN

WITH MAKING PICTURE
One of the largest motion picture casts of the season appears in "What Happens to Jones," the Universal-Jewel directed by William A. Seiter, which comes to the Sequoia Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, March 17 and 18.

Reginald Denny, who has become one of the screen's most popular stars in the past two years, heads the big cast, and is said to have one of the biggest starring parts of his career as the Jones to which so many untoward things occur.

Playing opposite him is Marian Nixon, who is attaining stardom on the screen herself by leaps and bounds. This is the third consecutive picture in which she has played with the handsome Reginald.

Otis Harlan has an important supporting role as the unlucky friend of Jones who helps him get into all manner of difficulty. Harlan, incidentally, played the same role on the stage some years ago, and when he was a juvenile instead of a character actor, did Denny's part in his own stage troupe.

Zasu Pitts contributes a comedy characterization—one of her first comedy roles since she has been identified with more serious parts. Nina Tomanzo, recent bride of Lou Tellegen, adds her beauty to a supporting part, as does Margaret Quinn.

TOM MEIGHAN UNIT

SEEN STRANGE SIGHTS
According to Thomas Meighan, Lila Lee, his leading woman in "The New Klondike," and Lewia Milestone, who directed the Ring Lardner story for Paramount; many of the Florida real estate offices employ jazz bands to attract the crowds. They stage Charleston contests, serve luncheon or tea, and vie with each other in fantastic stunts to draw spectators.

The presence of Meighan and "The New Klondike" troupe in Florida being tried out as a crowd magnet. The company secured a professional balloonist who staged a spectacular ascension and parachute jump for the edification of a horde of thrilled onlookers. In addition to making a good scene for the picture, the idea has been adapted by several Miami realtors, and is being used in connection with their land sales.

Though a real estate office offers many diversions, the problem of sleeping space remains a serious one. It is simply a case of each man for himself, with a poor chap being embedded on a billiard table; and the more fortunate in a hotel room, the price of which is—thirty-five to fifty dollars a day—real American money!

In the role of Tom Kelly, a baseball player who suddenly finds himself divorced from the big league, Meighan becomes an occupant of a billiard table couch in a shabby hotel.

There is humor and pathos in the weird situations that developed during the current Florida land boom. A goodly portion of each has been captured by the camera and depicted on the screen in "The New Klondike," which comes to the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, March 15 and 16.

Another "Bull" Durham adventure, this time by Will Rogers, leading American humorist, more coming. Watch for them.

Imagine a sign as you start to enter China: "RAIN. NO WAR TODAY." If that was the custom in this country, we could prevent all wars by announcing that all the fighting must be done in Portland, Oregon.

Another paper asks, "Where does a Florida Real Estate man go in the summer?" He goes to California to his all-the-year-round home.

A newspaper asks, "Why does a President of a concern always talk at the Company's banquets?" It's an incentive to the workers, who say, "If that's all he knows I may be President some day."

Another paper suggests, "The cheapest way to enforce Prohibition is to have everyone that drinks watched." Who is going to do the watching?

An article in a Business Man's magazine inquires, "What business in this country has the largest turnover?" Cucumbers for supper have the largest turnover, with Ford's a close second.

The Congressional Record speaking editorially, says, "Bull" Durham is the best Tobacco that ever entered these Statelands."

There will be another piece in this paper soon. Watch for it.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Samuel Hopkins, a former resident of Menlo Park and one of the heirs of the E. W. Hopkins, his father, has purchased a magnificent home on Octavia street, near Jackson, San Francisco, costing $50,000.

The Menlo Park branch of the National Council of Catholic Women will give a food and rummage sale March 20 in Menlo Park.

We hear a great deal lately about light wines and beer but here is a good story told at Fred Nessler's last evening:

"An old saloon keeper was buried last in Missouri recently. The clergyman officiating was new on the job and 'put on the dog.' Instead of telling the folks that they could take a last look at Otto, he said very precisely: 'An opportunity will now be given to pass around the beer.' All of Otto's old customers quietly wiped away their tears, removed their quids of tobacco, spat out the window and awaited results. We know how they felt.

By a typographical error it was published that the late James Flood left to his employees checks totaling $2000. A cipher was omitted. The amount should have read $20,000.

The board of trustees of the North Palo Alto Sanitary District at a meeting held last Monday evening signed the contract with W. T. Tobin of Oakland, who is to construct the new sewer system. The amount of the contract is a little over eleven thousand dollars. The work is to be completed in 90 days but the contractor says he will finish the job in forty days after he begins on April 1st. The Improvement Club of that section is shortly to construct a club house and is now improving its beautiful and attractive park. Other improvements are contemplated.

During the impending election for the incorporation of the town of Menlo Park it might be well to take a leaf from the history of the community and peruse it. Menlo Park was one of the first incorporated towns of the state. It was incorporated March 13, 1874 by an act of the legislature then in session and the governor was authorized under the act to select five citizens to serve as trustees. The citizens appointed were L. P. Cooley, John T. Doyle, George C. Boardman, C. N. Patton and W. J. Adams, all of whom had long since passed on to the other side. The first meeting of the new board was held on April 25, 1874 at which meeting, John T. Doyle was chosen president, and Robert L. Behre, clerk. Shadrach N. Patton, Boardman resigned as trustee and Mr. Rowe was appointed to fill the vacancy and shortly became clerk in place of Behre. There were but few houses in town prior to the coming of the Southern Pacific R. R. in 1863 and when the town began building, the object of the incorporation was to improve the streets and define the boundary lines which took in a wide territory going as far as the bay and nearly to the Redwood City boundary and to the hills in the west. The election for the new board in July, 1874, was an exciting affair, it being extremely bitter and fought to a finish. No contest in recent years compared to the bitterness that was shown in this election. The contest resulted in the election of L. P. Cooley, C. N. Patton, Dick Kuck, Adams, R. G. Smith and Dick Kuck, who used out John T. Doyle by two votes. L. Cooley was chosen president of the new board and Dick Kuck, clerk. Having completed the street improvement work, the board did not meet regularly and disunion having arisen in the board an application was made to the legislature to have the town reincorporated and this was done in 1875. It may be seen from this that all was not harmony in these by-gone days. Differences, a rancor and dissension were in vogue then just as there are today and just as there always will be in small communities.

Miss Mamie O'Dea, a former resident of Menlo Park, but now living at Palo Alto, is quite ill and her friends are much alarmed. It is the prayer of her admirers here that she may recover.

Mrs. Katherine Roosevelt Babcock, who died in San Francisco last September, left a will in the terms of which the Stanford Convalescent Home for children here was bequeathed the sum of $40,000 to be used in the construction of new buildings. This institution is rapidly being endowed by private interests and is one of the finest places for convalescent boys and girls in the state.

We were in error last week in stating that Charles Charles Merrill had filed his application for the nomination for trustee of the Menlo Park Sanitary District. He filed his certificate for trustee of the Menlo Fire Department to succeed himself. The election takes place on April 5 and no other candidate has filed for the place. Mr. Merrill has made an excellent official, always keeping in mind the best interests of the department and sparing no effort or expense to advance the department's efficiency. Retain this good man on the board.

The Menlo Park Sanitary election on Monday was a lively affair. Three trustees were elected, two for long term and one for the short term of one year. J. B. Kelly for assessor was unopposed. Two hundred and twenty-seven votes were polled. Edmund M. Doyle and L. H. Cook were chosen for the long term of two years and Ira S. Lillick, the attorney, for the short term of one year. E. E. Quayle made a remarkable run for he had only come into the contest late in the afternoon of the day of election and came with in a few votes of winning. The names of E. M. Doyle, De Lancy Lewis and Ira S. Lillick were on the printed ballot. A write in campaign which came very near carrying the election. Had an organized campaign started in the morning the regular ticket would have been defeated.

At a largely attended meeting of the Menlo Park Improvement Club last Friday evening, the members by a vote of 29 to 21 declined to merge with the Chamber of Commerce. Many of the members of the club expressed their intention of joining the new chamber of commerce.

The Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce was reorganized at Laurel Court last Monday evening. Many speeches were made boosting the community and urging action in advertising the town. A bright picture was painted by the speakers for the future of Menlo Park.

J. H. Sullivan, who guided the destinies of the old chamber, was chosen to head the new one. Miss E. Noel was made secretary; J. H. Harcum, first vice-president; Mrs. M. S. Strubling, financial secretary; and the bank of the Menlo Trust Company of Menlo Park was selected as treasurer.

The following directors were chosen: W. L. Roper, L. E. Harris, J. E. Strong, E. E. Quayle, Mark Montelone, P. J. Funnell, J. H. Sullivan, W. J. Murray, J. H. Harcum, Mrs. Strubling, J. W. Morey, P. E. Caine and D. E. O'Keefe.

Each director was appointed as a committee of one to bring in new members. F. J. Funnell was appointed chairman of the publicity committee, and E. E. Quayle was appointed head of the entertainment committee. A constitution and by-laws, similar to those now in use in the Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce, were adopted.

W. J. Murray spoke in favor of the chamber incorporating and getting a charter from the state. His suggestions were approved and a committee appointed to take the necessary steps to incorporate.

D. E. O'Keefe, A. M. Montgomery and Dr. George Stowell were delegated by President Sullivan to attend to the stationery. At the suggestion of W. J. Murray, they were instructed to write to Washington

The winning horses at the show were Waveland's Choice, son of the famous Kentucky Choice, a handsome stallion; Taff, a stock horse, and one of a pair of Lardo Shetland ponies which she recently purchased.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Reynard entertained about 25 of their friends at a party last Saturday evening at their new home in Palo Alto.

The death of Mrs. Linforth, wife of Walter H. Linforth, the well-known attorney in San Francisco last Friday was a distinct shock to this community, where she was liked and loved. Mrs. Linforth was a devoted mother, a loving wife and kind neighbor. She is mourned by a wide circle of friends because of her many acts of kindness and generosity. Her husband and her three children have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Mayor James Rolph is planned to address the chamber of commerce here very soon. A banquet is to be given in his honor. One of the new members of the chamber, is Herbert

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE VISITS IN BURLINGAME

Plans are being considered by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce to hold weekly luncheons of that organization similar to the meetings which have many the Kiwanis Club so popular. It is thought that this plan will stimulate interest in civic affairs.

A number of the members attended a meeting in Burlingame yesterday at which matters of civic interest were discussed. Those who attended were E. B. Hinnan, Henry Witto, Mrs. Holmes, J. A. Gibbons, Frank Towne, Asa Hull and William Thomas.
